WEEKLY MESSAGE FROM CANON MIKE

Some people would say that I'm a gregarious type of person: affable, full of life. But there is another side: the contemplative, the reflective, the one who enjoys silence. Silence is important to me, It's a time when I can think, question and commune with the Lord.

Many people today are afraid of silence. It terrifies them. It's not part of everyday life.

There are times when the public are asked to remain silent, like Armistice Day, 11th November: the day when the Guns became silent as WWI came to its end. This year we will be gathering in Grange Gardens on Sunday 9th November when we are asked to remain silent for two minutes to remember those who died through conflict. Believers and non-believers alike observe this time of silence.

Sadly there are those who are unable to respect the dead with silence: they clap and cheer. This is becoming prevalent within Society, something I find hard to understand or accept.

You've heard me talk about the 'Holy Silence' at the start of the Mass. This is a time when the People of God assemble and acknowledge to the Lord and each other their past failures. We come from a crowded and noisy world into the 'Presence' of the Silent one who speaks through the stillness and quiet of the moment.

We have lost something over the years. We no longer respect the Silence, we've lost the sense of wonder and awe.

“ Be still in the Presence of the Lord”

As we meet today, let us re-ignite what's been lost. Let us, as a mark of respect encounter the Loving Mercy of the Lord and remember those who have died, those who were unloved, along with those who still suffer physically or mentally in Silence. Our Act of Remembrance.

May they Rest in Peace
